Fiore Ai has created a spectacular union of visual and literary art. Having spent three years at Akademie der Bildende Kuesente, she garnered the commendation of her advisor who expressed that she had exemplary character and persistence. This became her educational foundation which propelled her to further studies in America where she was inspired by the Color-Field and hard-edge geometric abstraction of American art. She transcended from collagraphs to multiple-panel paintings. She chronicles her development as an artist in her book and aspires to flourish with art that enthralls and inspires fellow artists and connoisseurs.

Color-Field Paintings features her paintings that depict color, light and movement as seen through different angles and viewpoints. It showcases paintings that exhibit art in a stunning new direction that can be enriched by satellite and space vehicle imagery incorporated with modern architectural materials into multi-media works. More than that, each painting is highlighted with verbal depictions of its soft color gradation against hard edges and divisions tying the book together stunningly.

Terry Boucher might be a numbers guy by day but deep inside, he's a creative who loves to tell stories.

His inspiration for Christmas Peas comes mainly from his two daughters who love princesses and musicals. His desire to raise them as kind and strong Christian women led Terry to write about heroes who have to dig deep to find inner strength to overcome challenges and fulfill their purpose. He wants his stories to serve as good examples for his daughters, to ingrain in them the timeless values of honesty, perseverance, and complete trust in God.

Christmas Peas is not simply a retelling of the Hans Christian Andersen classic, but an original story that ties the classic to the magic of how Christmas dreams come true for those who are honest and faithful.
