A Challenge to the Church from the Parent of a Lesbian Child

E-BOOK

In They Are Not Lepers, Gaius D. Jenkins challenges the Christian church to revisit Jesus Christ's crucifixion and ask themselves if they believe Christ excluded the LGBT community in his trip to Calvary. As an ordained minister and parent of a lesbian child, he narrates some church practices that alienate the entire community from regular churchgoers because of their sins. He compares the treatment of LGBT members to how lepers were treated in Jesus' time. With his experiences and observations, he gives readers insights about how the church can move forward, be more accepting, and be more forgiving of all sinners, especially members of the LGBT community.
